

CONSTRUCTION TRAINING

Southeast Kentucky Revitalization Project

2018-2020

The Southeast Kentucky Revitalization Project will offer a series of trainings in roofing and mitigation between the summer of 2018 and the spring of 2020. These hands-on trainings will be offered at various partner sites throughout our service region. Trainings will range in time based on the size of each project. This work will focus on mitigation and roofing techniques. Roofing trainings will be led by a certified roofer, a representative from the supply company, and the SEKYRP construction manager. Mitigation trainings will be led by a trained mitigation supervisor and the SEKYRP construction manager.

Goals

- Increase skillset of contractors and builders
- Create opportunities for local contractors/builders
- Stabilize buildings in region
- Support downtown revitalization efforts

“Appalachia is the next great investment opportunity. To fulfill this potential, we need continued resilience, determination and grit.”

More About Training Sites

We are proud to partner with these amazing sites. Each of our training sites are owned by non-profits or municipalities that are focused on downtown revitalization. Most of these sites have project plans that include mixed use cultural programming that will benefit the entire community.

About SEKYRP

The Southeast Kentucky Revitalization Project is a three-year workforce development project funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission. Our project area includes Knox, Bell, Harlan, Letcher and Perry County but we welcome participants from across the Central Appalachian region. SEKYRP aims to make our employees more skilled, our communities more livable, and our region more desirable for outside investment. The project focuses on the areas of construction, design, and hospitality training. Trainees will receive a training wage for their classroom and hands-on training hours.
